JAPANESE RUMORS SEND MARKET DOWN

Mood of Depression Couldn't Be Shaken Off by the Traders.

DECLINE IN JAPANESE BONDS

Disturbing Factor Gave Weakness to Stocks Otherwise

NEW YORK, June 11.—A mood of depression crept over the stock market again to-day, which efforts to throw off proved unavailing. The trading was largely in professional hands and the movement of prices was under suspicion of exasgeration by the efforts of this class to further their purpose of getting action sufficient to offer a profit on operations. The consequence was a rather erratic movement of prices and abrupt fluctuations on comparatively small dealings. The opportunist policy of the traders led to sudden shiftings of position in the market without maintaining any ground for long. The constant changes thus involved gave suggestion of lack of conviction on the part of the operators. There was some disposition to attribute the recurrent weakness to the important failure in the confracting business announced this morning, although the effects of this were slight, so far as Surface Indications went. The dimensions of the Habilites involved in the failure, however, made it impressive.

A more influential factor in the failure, however, made it impressive.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Juno 11.—The cotton market was mederately active to-day, sare being estimated at 50,000 bales. There was considerable nervousness conriy and prices were lower, but the declines were followed by a firmer tone in the afternoon, and the market closed steady at a not dociline of 1 point on November but generally unchanged to 7 points are higher. The opening was steady at a decline of 293 points on near months, but 2923 points on loar months, but 2923 points on loar months, but 2923 points on sear months, but 2923 points on sear months, but 2923 points on sear months, but 2923 points on later y - long, and while the weather map made a favorable showing, prices worked up to withit 2 points of list night's finals on July, and to a net advance of 305 points on the new crop months immediately following on private reports claiming cold rains and halisterms in the westorn boilt. A bearish weekly report was expected at midday, however, and the market weakened during the forenoon, selling off to a not loss of 12 points on July and 2455 points on the active new crop months. The weekly report read bearishly, as expected, but its publication was followed by, a rally on covering of shorts and fresh demand for long account with leading spot interests buying Cotober, and during the middle of the afternoon active me thus generally showed not gains of 7014 points. Toward the close the market was irregular ins a result of the ronowed realizing, and last prices were 6638 points of from the best. Southern spot markets were unchanged to 4c. Weather forcenst called for increasing cloudiness and showers in northern parts of the westom belt, but seemed generally favorable.

Receipts at the ports to-day wore 4.847 hules against 4,944 last week and 5,152 last year. For the week 30,500 bales ngainst 29,543 last week and 29,770 last year, Today's receipts at New Orleans $11 bales against 315 last year, and at Houston $12 bales against 316 last year, and at Houston $12 bales against 20 and 2000 and at Houston $12 bal

The Virginia Hospital authorities stated early this morning that there was little doubt but that William' M. Mitchell, the former member of the Richmond Fire Department, and a well known resident of Seventh Street, Ful ton, who attempted to commit suicide yesterday morning, because of despandency over failing health, would yesterday morning, because of designationey over failing health, would recover.

Mitchell, who is thirty-one years of age, and lives with his stepmether at No. 3816 Seventh Street, has been in very poor health for some time, and it is asserted that brooding over his condition was the cause of his action. About 4:30 o'clock yests cay morning. Mrs. Mitchell heard her stepson walking about his room, but knowing that he was often troubled with insomnia, thought nothing of it until she heard two shots, and then a noise like a falling of a heavy body, followed by groans issuing from the room in which her son slept. She immediately ran to the room, and on opening the door found Mitchell lying across a couch in a pool of blood and with the smeking revolver—a .32-calibre/aveapon—lying just within reach of his hand where it had fallen after the shooting.

had fallen after the shooting.
Wound Not Necessarily Futal.
Dr. William F. Williamson was summoned, and realizing the condition of the injured may, hurriedly called the Virginia Hospital ambulance and then did what he could for the man. At the hospital it was found that the bullet had entered the left breast just above the seventh rib and that it had above the seventh rib, and that it had above the seventh rib, and that it had glanced off, the bone and pierced the left lung. The leaden pellet was taken from the left scapula in the back, Both Dr. Marvin Nuckols and Dr. Williamson, who assisted the former in performing the operation, say that the man's escape from death was little short of miraculous, and that though the wound is a dangerous one, it is not necessarily fatal. The other bullet fired went wide of its mark, striking the floor several feet from the couch.
